PRICE THREE CENTS

NARBERTH WAR MEMORIAL WILL BE DEDICATED IN CEREMONY NEXT MONDAY

Monument Has Tablet With Names of 200 Local Boys Who Served in the Great Conflict.

COMMUNITY PARADE TO PRECEDE THE EXERCISES

Narberth's War Memorial will be dedicated Monday morning as part of the Memorial Day services throughout the borough.

The actual dedication will be a part of the American Legion ceremonies. A parade will form at the fire house at 9.00 A. M., marching through the borough, and ending at the Community House.

The probable route of the procession will be: Elm Hall to Haverford avenue to Essex avenue, to Price, to Narberth, over railroad bridge to Woodside, to Wynnewood, under railroad tunnel to Windsor and thence to the memorial.

A number of organizations have already signified their intentions of joining in the parade, among them being the American Legion, G. A. R. Veterans, Boy Scouts, Girl Scouts, Fire Company, School Children, Tennis Club, Home Guard and Borough officials.

The dedication ceremonies are scheduled to start at 10.00, or as soon thereafter, as the marchers arrive. The speaker of the day will be Rev. Frank M. Gray, pastor of the Cynwyd Methodist Church, former chaplain of the Narberth Home Guard and pastor of the Narberth Methodist Church during the war.

Former Burgess Carl B. Metzger, who has been in charge of the project, will turn over the memorial to Burgess Henry A. Frye. Following the acceptance of the monument by the borough, the American Legion will take over the program, and will hold its regular public Memorial Day observance.

The Memorial itself is a dignified bronze tablet mounted upon a wall-like background of granite. It is located in the center of the ground directly in front of the new Community Building on the playground, and about eight feet back from the sidewalk. A short strip of pavement will lead directly from the walk to the Memorial.

The bronze tablet was cast and finished by the Bailey, Banks & Biddle Company, of Philadelphia. It is 39 inches high and 70 inches long, and bears the names of the 200 Narberth men and boys who served in the war, including the seven who gave their lives.

The preparation of the Memorial has been in charge of the Memorial Committee which was elected in 1919 by the Narberth Home Guard, the officers of this committee being Carl B. Metzger, chairman; T. Noel Butler, secretary, and Edward S. Haws, treasurer.

A. E. SHUBERT NEW POST COMMANDER

American Legion Elects New Officers for Coming Year.

DINNER WAS A SUCCESS

At the regular election of officers on Monday evening, Harold D. Speakman Post, No. 356, elected the following officers for the ensuing year:

Commander Allan E. Shubert; Sr. Vice Commander, G. Donald Bullock; Jr. Vice Commander, Thomas Kerrigan; Adjutant, Thos. E. Kuntzen; Finance Officer, John A. Mower, Jr.; Chaplain, Rev. Robert E. Keighton; Executive Committee, Arthur L. Cook, W. Russell Green, Winfield Cook, Rowland K. Hewitt, F. A. Egnore; Sergeant-at-Arms, Clarence Long; Sergeant, Sherman Lillard.

A resolution was introduced and adopted at this meeting, making all Past Commanders of the Post members of the Executive Committee. There are now living in Narberth three Past Commanders, Harry A. Simpson, C. Franklin Fretz and Henry A. Sparks, and upon the installation of the newly-elected staff at the June meeting, present Commander Arthur W. Burns will take his place as the fourth resident Past Commander.

Commander-elect Shubert will assume office as the sixth Commander of the Post. He has been an active member of the Post for a number of years, adjutant in the year of 1924-'25, and on the Executive Committee during the present administration.

On the coming Memorial Sunday the Post will attend in a body All Saints' Church, Wynnewood, where a memorial service will be held.

The service is to begin at 11 A. M., and all service men are requested by the Commander to be present at 10.50 at the church to form in line. For those who desire, vehicles will be provided at the Narberth Station at 10.45 A. M.

Banquet Successful.

Members of the Legion, their families and borough officials met Saturday night at the new Post home to render thanks to the directors of the Y. M. C. A. fund for the gift of the new headquarters.

The thank-you gathering was in the form of an enjoyable banquet, presided over by the commander, Arthur W. Burns. There was much singing and music of an orchestra to make the gathering more enjoyable.

The Post's gratitude for their new home was expressed by Commander Burns and by Benjamin A. Haverford, commander of the Ninth district, comprising Montgomery and Bucks counties. Mr. Burns announced with regret the absence of A. C. Shand and Fletcher W. Stites, members of the Y. M. C. A. Committee, both of whom were ill, of Robert J. Dothard, who was out of town, and of A. J. Loos, whose death last fall removed one of the most active of the committee members.

Brief remarks were made by T. Noel Butler, C. H. McCarter, F. M. Justice, W. D. Smedley and I. A. Miller in behalf of those who had given the building. Rev. Shindle gave an amusing talk reminiscent of his Civil War days.

Deputy Commander Talone, of Bryn Mawr, urged attendance at the Legion convention this coming fall. Henry A. Frye, head of Americanization work in the local Post, saw in the new home a greater opportunity for service.

An entertainment followed the banquet.

UP IN ARMS AT FLOWER

The ire of a number of Lower Merion property owners has been aroused by sneak automobilists traveling through this beautiful section who, attracted by colorful masses of spring flowers, have entered private grounds to help themselves to the blooms. Complaints have been made to the police.

Warning is given to automobilists that persons who take, without permission, things growing on another's property or carry away flowers, fruits and the like are liable to $500 fine and three years in prison under a recent trespass law enacted by the State of Pennsylvania. A number of convictions have already been made under this statute.

NOVICES INVITED BY TENNIS CLUB

Playing Equipment Will Be Supplied by Members Monday.

SUPPERS TO BE SERVED

Before you make any other dates, jot down those for the Tennis Club on your calendar.

Tonight the unusual good Saturday dinner will be served. Mrs. Metzger, Mrs. McKell and Mrs. Williams are in charge.

On Monday, Memorial Day, there will be cafeteria supper service from 5 to 8 P. M., with a menu of baked beans, potato salad, sandwiches, coffee and ice cream.

Saturday evening, June 12, the women will hold a card party at the club house for every member and his wife and friends, so consider yourself invited herewith.

The admission will be $1, the proceeds to be used for various needs of the kitchen and club rooms.

The women are hoping for support from everybody who is interested in the club, and want the party to be a jolly, social affair. So spread the news, get together "a table" or two, and come and meet your fellow members. Please call Mrs. Metzger and tell her you'll be there.

All the preparations are completed for the entertainment of those who are willing to own that they are novices at tennis, and the Tennis Club officials, especially the committee in charge, are anxiously awaiting the opportunity to welcome all who attend.

The condition of the courts is guaranteed by the past performances of the Grounds Committee, the balls have been provided by the Executive Committee, the racquets will be forthcoming from the members, and it is hoped that the town at large will furnish the players.

All the advance information indicates a goodly crowd, so if anyone is holding back because he fears his display of the games would not be creditable, he may feel assured that he will have plenty of competitors.

Any time Monday morning, May 31, is the date set for this affair and it is so informal that the only stipulations made are that the guests must be 18 years or over and must wear heelless shoes on the courts.

Of course, if you can secure a racquet by theft, loan or purchase to bring with you, it might help out in case of a shortage, but the club officials are expecting to provide enough so that no one should be disappointed.

By this occasion it is hoped not only to better acquaint the people with all the physical and social benefit the club has to offer, but also to provide a means of bringing our town people in closer touch with each other.

There is no greater advantage in a small town than in being acquainted with all its people and there is no better way of bringing this about than through such public occasions as this. So whether you come to play or to just look on, you will be welcomed.

ROTARY HEARS CONTRACTOR

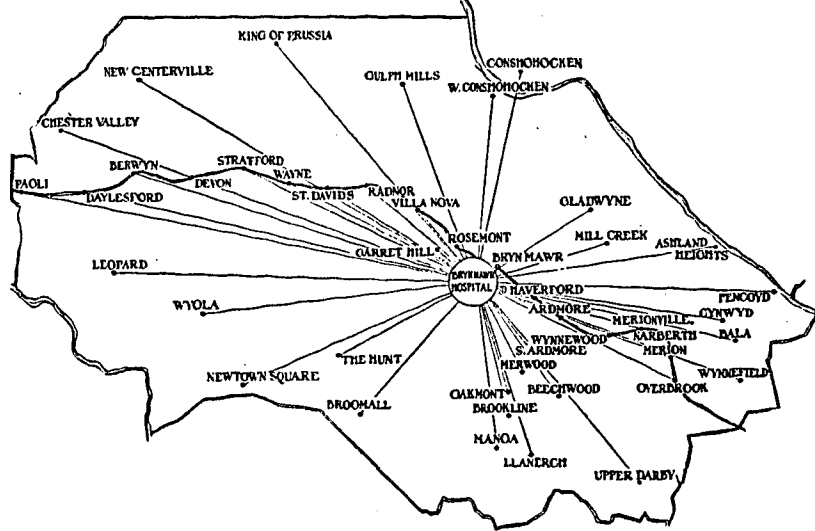

Guy Croyle, Merion contractor, told of his business, the construction of highways and public driveways at the Tuesday meeting of the Bala-Cynwyd-Narberth Rotary Club at the Cynwyd Club. His talk was followed by general discussion of the problems involved in that work. Philip A. Livingston presided as chairman.

The monthly business meeting of the club next Tuesday will be held at 12.15 instead of at night as customary.

NARBERTH'S ZONING LAWS BOOST STATE'S RANKING

Eastern Pennsylvania contributes three of the 24 zoned municipalities in Pennsylvania, which gives the State seventh place among the States of the Union in the number of such cities, figures from the Department of Commerce reveal. The three Eastern Pennsylvania cities reporting zoning ordinances are Chester, Haverford and Narberth.

Bryn Mawr Hospital's Territory

BRYN MAWR HOSPITAL

Few people realize the extent of the territory with a population of over 80,000 served by the Bryn Mawr Hospital. It is to provide larger hospital facilities for this great number of people that a Campaign for $1,000,000 will be conducted, beginning with an opening dinner next Wednesday.

SENIORS SELECT CLASS OFFICERS

John Paul Jones Is Orator, Adele Wyatt Essayist at L. M. High

BUSY FOR GRADUATION

The graduating class of Lower Merion High School met Tuesday morning in the auditorium at Ardmore and elected a class orator and a class essayist to take part in the approaching commencement exercises in June. John Paul Jones, of Cynwyd, was made orator and Miss Adele Wyatt, of Merion, was selected as essayist.

Jones recently won the district oratory contest and this evening will take part in the final Philadelphia Regional elimination contest at the Academy of Music in the city. Seven orators from three States, five boys and two girls are entered in this contest. The winner will represent Philadelphia in the finals to be held in Washington on June 4.

At the contest in the Academy Jones will outline "America's Contribution to Constitutional Government."

With graduation looming on the horizon, the Lower Merion seniors have been very busy registering and qualifying for various colleges, which many of them plan to attend next year. This is being done through Principal Pennypacker's office.

Due to the large increase in those seeking college educations the various institutions of higher learning have raised their standards of admission until they are a severe test of the applicants' abilities and a number of universities have also increased their tuition fees, but in spite of this a large number of the Lower Merion graduating class are planning to matriculate to higher schools. Among the universities and colleges that some of the seniors have already registered for are the following:

Yale, Harvard, Pennsylvania State, Lehigh, Lafayette, Haverford, Swarthmore, Cornell, Wellesley, Wilson, Holyoke, Goucher, and Bucknell. Pennsylvania, Haverford and Swarthmore top the lists with the largest number of applicants as has been the case of the past several years.

Elect Officers.

The annual meeting and luncheon of the Dr. Benjamin Rush Chapter, Daughters of the American Revolution, was held Saturday, May 22, at 1 o'clock in the Independence Room of the Benjamin Franklin Hotel. The following officers were elected for the coming year: Regent, Mrs. S. Z. Shope; first vice regent, Mrs. Hugh Martin; second vice regent, Mrs. C. F. Langlois; recording secretary, Mrs. Joseph Aiken; corresponding secretary, Mrs. W. R. O'Sullivan; treasurer, Mrs. Frank Hewitt; registrar, Mrs. H. M. Chalfant; historian, Mrs. C. Ailey Farmer; librarian, Miss Marie Gorin; auditor, Mrs. T. B. du Marais.

Strawberry Festival.

The Ladies' Aid Society of the Narberth M. E. Church will hold its annual strawberry festival on Friday evening, June 4, 6.30 to 8.30 o'clock. Strawberries, ice cream and cake will be served. Everyone is invited. Come and bring your friends.

CAMPAIGN STARTS NEXT WEDNESDAY

Dinner at Bellevue for All Active Workers in Drive

OTHER RALLIES FOLLOW

More than 600 residents of the Main Line and the territory tributary to it will gather next Wednesday evening, at the Bellevue-Stratford for a dinner which will officially mark the opening of the campaign for $1,000,000 to build and equip a large addition to the Bryn Mawr Hospital. Samuel Rea, chairman of the Executive Committee, in charge of the organized appeal, will preside and outline the serious shortage of hospital accommodation in this community which led the Board of Trustees of the hospital to recommend the construction of a new unit of 183 beds. This new building will raise the total bed capacity of the hospital from 114 to 230.

This meeting of the representative men and women from all sections of the large district served by the Bryn Mawr Hospital, will be the first to be attended by the whole working force of the organization which on the following morning will start to present the appeal to the public and will continue to do so until the campaign closes with the victory dinner at the Bellevue-Stratford on Friday, June 11.

In the course of the nine days of the campaign four report meetings will be held at Masonic Hall, Ardmore. The first will be a luncheon for all women's teams on Friday, June 4. The men's teams will meet the same evening at dinner. The third meeting will be a luncheon for the women's teams on Tuesday, June 8, and the fourth a dinner for the men on the same evening.

Every town on the Main Line from Overbrook to Paoli, and from Conshohocken to Upper Darby and Newtown Square, representing a population of more than 80,000 people, will be covered by the large and carefully organized body of workers under the leadership of captains and commanders. It has been stated that everyone in this area which is served by the Bryn Mawr Hospital will be given the opportunity to subscribe to the fund in order that all may do their part in making this community effort truly representative of the people for whose advantage and welfare it will be carried on.

Mrs. Thomas Newhall, who is in charge of the Campaign Information Booth at the Devon Horse Show, has reported that the many people attending this annual event are displaying great interest in the forthcoming campaign. Many people have expressed surprise upon being told of the great area served by the Bryn Mawr Hospital and of the remarkable work the hospital is doing in endeavoring to meet a demand for service so much greater than it was originally planned to meet.

"Our present hospital was built to provide a total of 52 beds," said Mrs. Newhall. "The demand for service grew, and the children's house and maternity building were added. But the demand for hospital service continued to grow so that we were forced to use the examining room, parlors and the sun porches to accommodate more beds. We now have 114 beds in the hospital. With the new building we will have 230."

MEMORIAL WINDOWS TO BE DEDICATED TOMORROW

Ceremony in the Presbyterian Church at Morning Service.

Special exercises will be held in the Presbyterian Church tomorrow at 11 A. M., in the dedication of the beautiful memorial windows that have been placed this past week in the Windsor avenue end of the main auditorium. These windows have been made at the famous D'Ascenzo Studios of Philadelphia. They are of the best quality of opalescent glass and have been executed in a thoroughly artistic manner. The following are the donors:

William J. Peebles, in memory of his wife, Rowena Young Peebles.

Robert J. Nash, in memory of his mother, Alice J. Collum Nash.

The men and boys of this church in memory of Augustus J. Loos.

John A. Caldwell and Robert W. Caldwell, in memory of their father, John B. Caldwell, and in honor of their mother, Amanda Caldwell.

NARBERTH BOOTH

Raise Money at Little Garden Day Sale.

Narberth's booth at the Little Garden Day Sale, which was held on the Bryn Mawr Community House grounds last Monday, was in charge of Mrs. Harold C. Fenno. Her efficient and hard-working committee consisted of Mrs. Hugh B. Speed, Mrs. James W. Darville, Mrs. William Bartlett, Mrs. Claude H. Crane, Mrs. Ernest C. Drew, all of Narberth, and Mrs. Milton F. Alexander, of Brookline.

With all the returns not yet made, the Bryn Mawr Committee has received to date $950, of which $94.24 was turned in by the Narberth booth.

The committee wishes to thank the following firms for their generous donations to the booth: Albrecht Nurseries, Lyon's Hardware, Miss Laura Hopper, Robert A. Craig, florist of Norwood, also the Century Flower Shop, Pennock Brothers, and Charles H. Fox, of Philadelphia, for beautiful cut flowers, and John Wana-maker for bird houses.

The Garden Day Sale, which has become an annual event, is under the direction of the Main Line Federation of Churches, of whose Auxiliary Committee Mrs. J. E. Caldwell is chairman. Various towns along the Main Line are asked to take charge of a booth and to solicit donations of plants and flowers to sell.

FIRE COMPANY ELECTS OFFICERS AT MEETING

President du Marais Appoints Committee to Raise Equipment Fund.

The new officers of the Narberth Fire Company were elected and installed at the meeting Tuesday night at Elm Hall. These had all been nominated last month.

Those who took office, all of whom (excepting Dr. Barnes) were former incumbents are: President, T. B. du Marais; vice president, Dr. A. C. Barnes; treasurer, George B. Suplee; finance officer, Walter Cowin, and secretary, James F. Purse.

The president announced the appointment of a strong committee to take personal charge of the task of raising money for the new equipment. It is the intention of the committee to concentrate their appeals on residents outside the borough who receive our fire protection.

The personnel of the new committee is: Carl B. Metzger, chairman; Dr. A. C. Barnes, A. P. Redifer, C. V. Noel, F. A. Egnore, F. C. Patten, E. P. Dold, E. C. Griswold.

LAST DEVOTIONAL MEETING

The Friendship League of the Narberth Young People's Societies will hold its last devotional meeting of the season in the Methodist Church this Sunday, May 30, at 6.45 P. M. A very fine program has been prepared by the president, James McCutcheon, with the aid of the other societies. We have been fortunate in securing a speaker for the evening Mr. Van Anken, who is a lieutenant commander in the United States navy and lives in Narberth. He is to present a very interesting topic. Let us have 100 per cent. attendance, not just because it will be the last meeting, but because we are going to hear a real message and it will be something for us to remember over the summer months and renew our enthusiasm for the coming year.

The Friendship League wishes to publicly congratulate its president, Mr. McCutcheon, for the successful year he has brought it through, and for his untiring efforts in its behalf, we are grateful.

Police to Enforce Camp Rules.
A communication of the Main Line Citizens' Association concerning provisions for comfort stations for Sesqui visitors residing in Lower Merion was referred to the Health and Drainage Committee, and the association was advised to address its request for school lavatory facilities for Sesqui visitors to the School Board. The Police Committee was given the duty of enforcing State regulations for sanitary camp sites and conditions, as recommended by Dr. Wilbur, of the Board of Health.

THESE FILMS WON'T BURN
The present dangerously inflammable cellulose film is now being replaced by a compound long used in the manufacture of artificial silk, known as cellulose acetate. This non-inflammable product, says Safety Engineering, is made by the action of acetic acid, acetic anhydride and sulfuric acid on cotton linters, all of which are obtainable in sufficient quantities to supply a heavy demand.

The film almost entirely used at present in the motion picture industry is of nitro-cellulose base, being produced of sulfuric acid.

Severe Pruning Best for Roses.
Individual rose blooms of greatest perfection are obtained by practicing severe pruning in the spring, says the United States Department of Agriculture. This will result also in securing a succession of blooms. When a large number of blooms of small size is the aim, the pruning is less severe. Where the greatest amount of bloom is desired, without regard to the size or quality of the individual flowers, the least pruning is done. Pruning should be done as soon as freezing weather is over. In regions where roses never suffer from cold it may be done in the fall. All weak wood and crossing branches should be removed every year.

For fine specimen blooms on hybrid perpetuals the remaining shoots should be shortened to four or five eyes. For the greatest mass of bloom only one-third to one-half the length of the shoots cut away. When overpruned the tendency of the plants is to growth rather than to bloom and a few varieties will not stand the extremely close pruning described.

A telephone on either end of a telegraph wire comprised the first "long distance" line. Today these intercity talkways, on which the cablemen are continuously adding new circuits, often several hundred in one great cable, reach from ocean to ocean.

"Long Distance," then and now

The first public demonstration of "long distance" telephone conversation was held in November of 1876 between Boston and Salem, fifteen miles apart. At both points were posted notices commanding absolute silence of those present, lest the experiment fail.

As lines were established between more distant cities, the struggle with "outside" and "inside" noises increased. Those who used the toll service in the Nineties and even later will recall how they had to shout to drown out the buzz and crackling on the wires, if possible.

In fair weather, all went well—sometimes. But the storms of winter, and even of summer, put the crude lines out of service in wholesale fashion.

It is not unnatural that fifty years of telephone history should have marked great progress in these respects.

That the ordinary tone of voice now carries to the Pacific or to Cuba perhaps causes no public wonder—certainly not so much as to the thousands of technicians who worked so many years against great obstacles to accomplish it.

We are fast approaching a practically storm-proof plant in Pennsylvania, in which over three million miles of exchange wire and a quarter of a million of toll wire are now in cables.

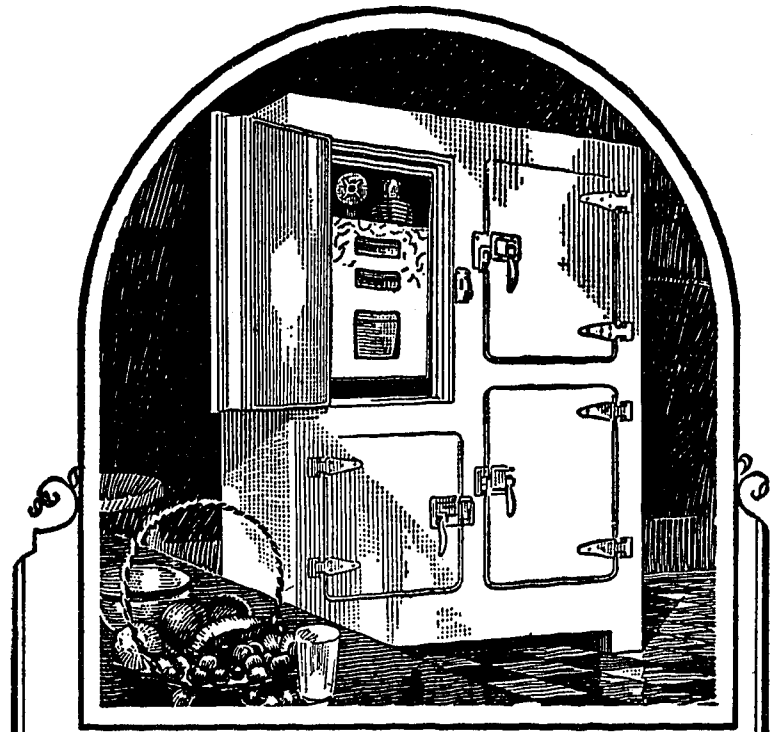

In many ways not consciously observed by the users of the service it is being surrounded by continually increased protection and dependability. And today, greater effort is being made along these lines than at any previous time in our fifty years of history.

MANY RECORDS USED TO TRACE FAMILY TREES

Everyone who gives some attention to historical research receives appeals for aid in tracing the ancestry of friends and acquaintances or perhaps total strangers. With the growing popularity of the Daughters of the American Revolution and kindred societies and the increased interest directed toward happenings of the American Revolution by reason of the sesquicentennial preparations there is widespread endeavor to learn more about family history.

Often these inquirers are unaware how much diligent effort is necessary to follow a genealogical line. It is a highly specialized kind of research that calls for a comprehensive knowledge of history and the acumen of the skilled detective in addition. The amateur is likely to go astray or to find the work too taxing, so recourse is had to the professional genealogists.

Southeastern Pennsylvania is a comparatively good field for genealogical research, for in addition to the splendid library of the Historical Society of Pennsylvania, in Philadelphia, most of the county historical societies have good libraries.

Church records are one of the best sources of information for the family history hunter. Most of the old Lutheran, Reformed and Episcopal congregations have records of baptisms, marriages and deaths running well back into the eighteenth century. In some instances these have been printed and indexed. Where that is not the case toilsome search through old German manuscript records may become necessary.

Friends' Records of Value.

The Friends' meeting records likewise are of much value and in some instances are older than those of the German churches.

Family history can also be traced in the wills recorded at the county court houses. In the case of families living in the territory that is now Montgomery county before the establishment of the county, in 1784, it is necessary to consult Philadelphia records.

Deeds also may supply many a missing link in the genealogical chain, though they are chiefly valuable in determining residence.

Where historical societies have a good collection of files of newspapers, as in the case in the library of the Montgomery County Society, an added field for profitable research becomes available.

News Reports Were Incomplete.

The newspapers of the early days usually mentioned marriages and deaths. Sometimes they printed full obituary notes, but these are lacking in the kind of definite detail to which readers are accustomed nowadays. Especially is this exasperating in the case of the reports of deaths of soldiers of the Revolutionary War. Much is usually said about the heroism and patriotism of the man whose death is recorded but the report fails to tell in what regiment he served and in what battles and campaigns he participated.

When by these measures the lineage is traced back to the days of the Revolution, then the next step is to look up the various volumes of the Pennsylvania Archives containing lists of members of the different Pennsylvania commands in the Continental Army and the militia. It then can be determined whether any ancestors of military age at the time of the Revolution were enrolled in the service.

Contain List of Immigrants.

With the aid of those same Archives it is possible to go back still farther and perhaps determine when the first of the line came to Pennsylvania, for among the Archives are volumes containing long lists of immigrants arriving in Pennsylvania in the eighteenth century.

But it is desirable to bear in mind, in consulting these printed records of the old days, that many a family name therein is spelled in a manner far different from the customary orthography of today. Those old-time scribes often "spelled by ear." The German names puzzled them and they did the best they could under the circumstances, since often the owner of the name was at a loss himself as how to spell it.

Instances are numerous where an early settler wrote his name in two or more different ways. Even so prominent a man as Christopher Sower, the pioneer printer, spelled his name in three different ways—"Saur," "Sauer" and "Sower."

For Us and Ours

Nearly everybody carries life insurance to protect his family. No property-holder would think of going without fire insurance. But what about health insurance?

Modern hospital care is the best form of health insurance. It protects not only ourselves and our families, but it safeguards the health of the whole community. Let us think, then, of the dangers of illness and accident. Against this the hospital is our insurance.

We naturally expect the hospital to be ready for us in any emergency, and none of us knows when serious illness or injury may come. But can it be ready for us unless we make it so?

I have been thinking of this community movement as an opportunity to the people to invest in a kind of insurance—one that is more important than any other. Isn't a subscription to this fund like buying insurance—the kind that helps to assure continued life and health instead of paying us for their absence?

The enlarged Bryn Mawr Hospital, which will provide for all of us the proper health and life protection which we have a right to expect, can be created only by our gifts, which, after all, will benefit ourselves. We must always remember that in subscribing to the fund which will build and equip the new addition to our hospital we give through the hospital to ourselves.

Besides, we should remember that in giving through the hospital, we are helping sick and injured men and women and suffering children who will owe their life and their health to our generosity.

Organization leaders in Lower Merion, Narberth and Montgomery county, in general, were jubilant this week when they learned that the pluralities they rolled up for the Pepper-Fisher ticket here in the primary week had not gone entirely for nothing and that John S. Fisher, their candidate for governor had secured the Republican nomination. The gloom which permeated the camp when it was first announced that Attorney Beidleman had been swept to victory with William S. Vare gave away to smiles and mutual exchanges of congratulations.

While deploring the defeat of Senator George Wharton Pepper
by Vare for the United States Senatorial, nomination organization chieftains are more than just fairly well pleased that Fisher broke through for governorship. The senatorship means much but after all the local and county administration comes in closer touch with the governor, who controls the executive activities of the State and incidentally, but very importantly much of the State and county political patronage.

With Beidleman, whom it fought tooth and nail in the governor's chair, the local and county organization would have been faced with anything but easy sledding. It would have been faced with lean years of little patronage and in the second place it would have been put on the defensive constantly to meet efforts of the Vare-Beidleman crowd to break down the present organization and form a following of their own in the county. With Fisher as governor things will be much different.

The nomination of Mr. Fisher for governor will also help party harmony, which was threatened here when it was announced at first that Vare and Beidleman had swept the State. Many of the rank and file who threatened desertion in the November election will support the ticket which is now shared by an anti-Vare organization candidate, who will be in control of the State's political machinery.

Some of the women voters in Lower Merion and Narberth, who were strongly for Pepper, have threatened to vote for the Democratic nominee rather than support Congressman Vare, but the great majority of the voters, it is believed, will support the joint ticket and formal endorsement of it will be made by various township and county political organizations as soon as the official count of the primary vote is completed.

Early this week there was still some doubt if Governor Pinchot would accept the results of the primary and decide not to run an independent race in November, but if he does he will run without the support of William S.
Buckland, Pinchot county leader and others who supported him in Montgomery last Tuesday.
"I am a Republican and am for the Republican nominees chosen in the primaries," Buckland announced Monday. "If the governor runs as an independent, he will not have my support nor the support of other Pinchot backers here."

Deputy Auditor General Charles Johnson, leader of the county organization, will be established as one of the strongest political factors in the State, as the result of the primaries. Not only did his machine sweep the county to elect one Congressman, one State Senator and five members of the assembly, but it rolled up overwhelming pluralities for Pepper and Fisher and gave them one of the largest leads accorded by any county in the State.

The final count of the Montgomery vote begun at Norristown Monday, was completed Wednesday and showed a plurality here for Pepper of 12,819 and for Fisher of 15,694.

The National Memorial Day.

Once again the time comes around to honor the brave men who fought in the civil war. The terrible line of cleavage that split our country wide open in that cruel conflict is row almost forgotten, but the country will never forget the men who offered themselves to settle the fundamental questions that brought on that struggle. Equal self-sacrifice and grandeur of devotion was manifested on both sides of that fateful conflict.

You Can Put Your Pencil Point On This Fact

Roofing slate is a cut stone which is as fireproof as a stone or brick wall. Shingles made of asbestos and cement are also fireproof.

Do not use substitutes which are recommended as being fireproof, as a paper composition roof will not resist fire.

When your house needs re-roofing, let us submit an estimate on a strictly fireproof job.

THE MAY BOOK LIST

The following is the list of books purchased this month and now ready for circulation by the Narberth Community Library:

NON-FICTION

Best American Orations of Today, Harriet Blackstone.

When We Were Rather Older, Fairfax Downey. Upstairs and downstairs funny verses on the younger generation.

FICTION

Afternoon, Susan Ertz. The romance of a young middle-aged man and the loves of his twin daughters. Banzai! John Paris. Being the somewhat biographical story of a modern Japanese.

Child of the Wild, Edison Marshall. The life and romance of a little boy lost in the wilds of Alaska. Clara Barron, Harvey O'Higgins. About a young professional woman who leaves her home and takes an assumed name.

Downey of the Mounted, James B. Hendryx. A tale of the Canadian Northwest.

Flapper Ann, Corra Harris. The lively story of a modern young girl forced to live for one year in a small town.

His Majesty the King, Cosmo Hamilton. A romantic love chase of the Seventeenth century.

Instruments of Darkness, Alice Duer Miller. A story of a Twentieth century Lady Macbeth who decides that ambition is a most laudable thing in spite of the ghost that stalks at her parties.

It's Not Done, William C. Bullitt. Of a young man born into wealth and family who strives to get all the beauty and good out of life and yet not lose his ancestral standards of honor.

Little Tiger, Anthony Hope. A picture of post-war England and its women, with much about the "Little Tiger," its heroine.

O Genteel Lady, Esther Forbes. In the days of stays, hoopskirts and bustles the lady left her native village and went to Boston to seek a career.

Precious Bane, Mary Webb. The highly dramatic story of Prue Sarn and her brother on their farm in England.

Silver Stallion, James Branch Cabell. Another of those extraordinary allegorical novels by the author of "Jurgen," that unusual character who reappears in this new story.

Sunken Garden, Nathalia Crane. A prose fantasy by the author of "Lava Lane."

Teef-Tallow, T. S. Stripling. A story of life in the Tennessee hills.

MAY-DAY AT MATER MISERICORDIAE

May-Day at the Convent of the Sisters of Mercy, Merion, becomes every year more colorful and picturesque. This year it stands out as distinctly unique with the "Return of Spring" expressed in dance and pantomime. Nature, too, did more than her share in perfecting the picture, because spring being so late, there was an extra profusion of blossoms that are usually gone at this time.

Miss Lucille Keeler, a fetching herald, led the pageant and delivered the prologue.

Then came the "Breath of Spring," beautifully interpreted by Miss Dolores Durang, awakening the first flowers. These were the tiniest of little girls dressed as violets, daisies and buttercups. But the child "North Wind," Miss Margaret Brown, and the flying "Snow Flakes," surprise the tiny buds and blight them. The "Snowflakes," in turn, were scattered by very realistic "Raindrops." Then came the "Sunbeams" with their gleaming head-dresses to reanimate the blossoms. The Rainbow dance, following this, was one of the loveliest features of the day. The "Fairies" came next in the very prettiest costumes I have ever seen, and after their reveals there was a shower of rose-buds with brilliant wowing "Butterflies." Then the whole scintillating cortege paid homage at the throne of the charming May Queen, Miss Dorothy McClatchy.

The May-pole dance was unusually effective: its waving streamers gracefully handled by the seniors.

The closing picture was all the groups merged under the banners of Country and School singing the beautiful words of the Merion School song.

MAIN LINE LEAGUE OPENED SATURDAY

Narberth Trounces Wayne in First, 14-6—Brookline Here Today.

Manager Jack Jeffries assembled his crew last Saturday and delivered a beautiful trouncing to the Wayne team, which journeyed here to do battle with the last year champions of the Main Line League.

Gibson was pulled out of the box after Wayne had crossed the plate four times in the first three innings. But when Babb took up the white man's burden for Narberth in the fourth inning, the crew folded up their tents like the Arab and were done for the day. Babb's fast ball completely blinded the Wayne batting eyes, nine fanning the air, and only two connecting safely.

By the sixth inning Narberth had Hallowell so well sized up that he tumbled off the mound with a thud and his successor, Chief Dunne, didn't fare any better.

Joseph Dorsaneo shook the big stick for Wayne and his home run, triple and double accounted for all of their runs. With a little more practice Wayne will be amongst them.

Dickie and Babb each scored three hits; Yowell and Jeffries two apiece.

Since Brookline Square Club was given an 8-5 beating by Preston last week, there's been considerable guessing over the outcome of today's game. It looks like an easy win for the local boys, but you never can tell.

The score of last week's game was:

Jr. Elephants	3	0	1.000
Red Sox	2	1	.667
Indians	1	2	.333
Jr. Eagles	0	3	.000

On Saturday, May 22, the Red Sox defeated the Junior Eagles by the close score of 15-14. The ninth inning opened with the score 15 to 7 in favor of the Red Sox. Then the Jr. Eagles staged a rally that came but one run of tying the score. In the other league game the Jr. Elephants made it three straight league games by defeating the Indians.

The Jr. Elephants had Newborg in the box for eight and two-thirds innings. The Indians could not connect with his left-handed throws until the ninth inning, when Powell checked a rally by relieving him. The final score was 18-8. The features of the game were the home runs by Powell and Fricke, the support given Newborg and the trick play by Fricke. Fricke was coaching third base. There was a man on third. Fricke asked the pitcher to let him see the ball. When Fricke got the ball he held it until the man on third scored.
